Legion Notes

Commander Arch Ward of the Will county council of the American Legion has cancelled the monthly meeting called for this Friday as it falls on Good Friday. However, the scheduled meeting will be held next Friday, April 22 at the Buffalo Post in Joliet. Commander Howard Osmus is planning to attend and wishes to know how many members want to go along.

Word has been received from Bill Burns, Commander of the American Legion in Illinois, that a new bill is now before Congress to give pensions to Veterans of World War I. Veterans should study this bill if it concerns them and write for information about it.

As Memorial Day draws near, it becomes necessary to record all new burials of Veterans that have passed away in the last year. As Graves Registrar of the Bobzin-Swinford Post 1098, Delbert Seeman is checking and adding to his list of deceased veterans all those who passed away this last year. There are quite a few cemeteries in this area that are covered by this Post. It is the duty of the graves registrar to have placed on each Veteran's grave by Memorial Day an American flag. Any information concerning new graves of deceased veterans will be greatly appreciated. In the near future, when they will become available, the Bobzin-Swinford post will place permanent flag holders on each Veteran's grave in this community.

Drive to Organize More 4-H Clubs

A concerted effort is being made to increase the membership of 4-H Agricultural club, and to form new clubs. The goal is set for June 1, which is the last date for enrollment for this year.

In many communities, organizations are backing the clubs. In Steger, it is the Kiwanis club. There still are many communities without 4-H clubs and members are trying to contact every known boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 20, and their parents to explain what the Club has to offer. The Farm Advisers are glad to assist any community in the organizing of a new club.

Last week a new club was organized in Orland Park for the girls, with Mrs. Harry Anderson as leader, and assisted by Mrs. Roy Loebe and Mrs. Harold Morloch.

Mokena V. F. W. Make Start For Their New Building on Wolf Road

The members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Mokena have made a start on the building for their new home, by staking out the building.

It will be located on Wolf Road, two doors north of the Swanberg Farm and Auto Service. The culvert has been laid and the driveway made leading into the lot.

The building, which will be 40x75 feet, will have a basement which will contain recreation rooms, kitchen, dining room and the upper floor will be a dance hall. It is the expectation of the group that the building will be completed this year. The dance hall will be available for renting.

The building committee is composed of Fred Steinhagen, chairman, with Fred Hentsch, Joseph L. Doyle and Clarence Werner.

After waiting for over a year for the new street lights for the two blocks immediately east of Wolf road on Front street in Mokena, the long awaited for moment arrived last Thursday night, April 7 at 6:30, when the switch was pulled and the lights went on. It was a veritable "Great White Way," and the section which had been in darkness for so long a time, seemed all of a sudden to turn into bright sunlight.

There are 21 poles in the three blocks with 1,000 lumen bulbs in each light. They will burn from early dusk and at midnight every other one will be automatically turned off, and the remaining ones burn until morning.

The first electric lights in Mokena was in January 1913, 36 years ago. The lights consisted of 30 Tungsten light clusters of 40-candle power lamps and four Tungsten light clusters of three 40-candle power lamps. That was a wonderful day for Mokena, when the old oil lamps were replaced by modern lights.

Before that there was no electricity in the village. After much deliberation and planning, in June 1912 the first contract with the Public Service company was signed by the president of the village board, Ona McGovney and Clerk William Semmler to bring electricity to Mokena. Then it was also that the water was first pumped by electricity into the village tank, which was a marvelous improvement over the old gasoline engine.

It is hoped and thought that it will not be another 36 years before lights will be extended throughout the village similar to the new type lights.

Village President Everett Cooper and the Board members are to be congratulated for their efforts toward improving the village.

President Everett Cooper, who goes out of office after next Tuesday's election, closes his administration with this last splendid effort. He has served the village as clerk and mayor for a total of eight years, and is not a candidate for re-election.

SCHOOL ELECTION RESULTS

In the school elections held last Friday afternoon, Albert Krusemark, Jr. was elected director for the Frankfort village school, having received 173 votes. His opponent Clarence Klepper, received 37 votes.

In New Lenox, there also was no opposition and the following candidates all were elected: Charles O. Ellis, president of the board; Ronald Jeddick and Mac Clain Brown, members of the board for a three year term. They all received 46 votes.

TROUT FISHING IN ILLINOIS

COMPILED BY STATE DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Check Stored Feeds Often

As Precaution Against Mold

Livestock feeders should check their stored feeds frequently, to guard against the danger of poisonous molds.

Certain molds, forming on grain, silage and hay, cause serious and sometimes fatal diseases of all species of livestock.

"Moldy corn can cause a disease very similar to sleeping sickness in horses and a serious genital disease in swine," the American Foundation for Animal Health points out. "One type of fungus can cause lumpy-jaw in cattle. Moldy clover hay may be responsible for sweet-clover disease, which causes the blood of cattle to lose its clotting ability. Ergot poisoning may be a serious problem. One type of pneumonia in poultry and calves is caused by a grain fungus. Several skin diseases of animals are due to fungi."

Naturally, the main precaution is to avoid using moldy feed. If mold poisoning is suspected in livestock, then a veterinary diagnosis should be obtained at once. Symptoms may be similar to those of some contagious infection, and proper treatment will depend on the true cause of trouble.

Why The Moon Shines

Rays of light reflected from the earth cause the moon to shine for these reasons: Ordinarily the moon shines with light which falls on it from the sun and is then deflected to the earth. However, when the moon is nearly new and appears as a narrow crescent in the western sky just after sunset, we sometimes faintly see the whole moon explain G. E. scientists. The bright crescent is illuminated directly with sunlight, but the rest is made visible by sunlight that has fallen on the earth and then it is reflected back to us again. This effect is often called "the old moon in the new moon's arms."

Federal Highway Aid

Charles M. Upham of Washington, D. C., engineer-director of the American Road Builders' association, recommends that federal aid authorizations be increased to at least one billion dollars annually to assist the states in the nation's badly needed highway program. Such aid authorization would be double the highest previous amount authorized for federal aid highways — $500,000,000 (m) a year under the federal aid highway act of 1944.

Easy to Make SEED FRAME

Anyone handy with a hammer and saw can construct this sturdy seed frame. It is made up of four sides, and a hinged top glazed with Vimlite, flexible plastic glazing. Vimlite is used because it is shatterproof, lightweight, has good insulation qualities and is easy to install. No grooving of the frame, or putting is necessary. Vimlite is merely tacked in place like fly screen.

The standard size for seed frames is 3 feet x 6 feet. To protect it against rot and decay, the lumber used should be treated with Dow's pentachlorophenol. This chemical and Vimlite can be obtained at hardware, lumber and building supply stores.

Assemble the four sides, center partition, and top frames according to the sketch. For permanent construction it is advisable to use galvanized screws instead of nails. The seed frame is set in place on the ground with the high side to the north, and the top sash slanted toward the sun. The inside should be filled with 3 inches of cinders or gravel and then a layer of top soil. This insulates against cold, and improves drainage. When the seed frame has served its purpose each season, it should be removed and stored until it is time to use it again.

The Lowdown From Hickory Grove

Freight trains on the highways. Sisters and brethren, there is a subject. Old Mr. Iron Horse is having hard going. Here he is buying a private right-of-way on which he lays a costly track and on which he pays taxes and on which he keeps up repairs at his own expense—and what happens. What, says Henry. Well, I says, zooming along, parallel, is a competing highway freight truck, big as a freight car, running on a nice, smooth pavement built by the state and the people.

Now, owning no railroads or any railroad stock, and wanting the lowest freight rates possible, I am for whatever system is best and cheapest—in the long run. But as the highway freight trucks get bigger and longer and higher and my driving of my own flivver into town gets more risky and risky as the freight truck driver looks down upon me, I am beginning to lean to the idea that I better speak up while I can speak up.

If we allow unfair competition to wear old Mr. Iron Horse threadbare—and we wake up some morning and the depot is locked, we will not be so calm and unperturbed.

Before the R R came to town, what did our burg look like—there is something important to ponder. It is no hum-drum affair.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

Ounce of Prevention...

Cowboys of just a few years ago would have been puzzled by the above illustration. But livestock producers today see it as a picture of a routine job... vaccination of a calf to help keep him healthy.

Livestock producers and meat packers have a common goal: to supply America with all the wholesome, nutritious meat this nation of ours needs. And so at every step of the way—from range, farm and feed lot to the tables of consumers—precautions are taken to produce meat of the best possible quality... meat that will receive the familiar round purple stamp "U. S. Inspected & Passed." This purple circle, found on every important cut supplied by federally inspected packers, is the housewife's guarantee of good, wholesome meat.

Growing animals are subject to various ailments. Meat, milk, wool and other valuable by-products... enough to supply a good-sized nation... are lost on farms and ranches each year. Add to this the lost grain and grass fed to animals which never live to maturity, or fed to unthrifty livestock that gain slowly. Total dollar losses run into billions.

Much has been done toward reducing these losses. New drugs and chemicals, such as the sulfas, penicillin and phenothiazine, are conquering livestock ailments, pests and parasites. But some of these causes of reduced production and profit are stubborn. To lick them will take increased knowledge, cooperation among neighbors and a constant watch for danger signs. But the increased earnings which can result from these efforts make them more than worth while. Production of healthy livestock is the only way to keep the markets for the meat you produce supplied and expanding. In solving your problems your local, state and federal veterinarians are good men to turn to for help.

Price Balances Supply and Demand

In the first six weeks of the year livestock and meat prices have dropped with great rapidity. In my 24 years with Swift & Company I have never seen so violent a drop. On the other hand, I have never seen prices start down from so high a level. It is the law of supply and demand at work.

When the wholesale prices of meat—the amount meat packers can get for it—go down, it means lower prices for livestock. It always has been and always will be that way. When demand for meat increases, we are able to pay producers more for their livestock. The prices Swift & Company, and the other 26,000 meat packers and commercial slaughterers, pay for livestock are governed by what they can get for the total available supply of meat and the by-products. As in the past, so in the future, livestock prices will result entirely from the balance between supply and demand.

Let's Be For Things Seems to me that most of us spend too much time and blood-pressure being against things. Let's be for things. Let's be for freedom of choice and initiative. Let's be for a system which allows a man to choose freely his own work, to make his own opportunities, to plan his own production. Which lets him decide where and how he lives; how he spends or invests his earnings. Let's be for our country, where a man's the boss of his own time, his own thoughts and his own political and religious beliefs. Let's take a good look at the rest of the world, then reverently thank God, and be for the United States.

Hope you have a prosperous summer, and we'll be looking forward to being with you again. Meanwhile, if you're in Chicago, plan to visit us at Swift & Company. All of us in the Agricultural Research Department cordially invite you to drop in for a chat. We'll be looking for you!

F.M. Simpson.

Quotes of the Month

The livestock producer, both by nature and by necessity, is a true conservationist. He would no more deliberately ruin the property on which he depends for his livelihood, and which he hopes to pass on to his children, than the manufacturer would deliberately tear down the plant in which he operates.

A. A. SMITH, President
American National Livestock Assoc.

Livestock provides one-third of all the food energy in the American diet, and 80 per cent of all the land used to produce the nation's food supply is devoted to livestock production. That is the story of a big business, vital to all Americans.

Economy of Production

By Dean H. J. Reed
Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana

It is the net income that enables farmers to have the things they want for their homes and families.

Prices of farm products are going down. Taxes, transportation costs, labor, materials, and operating costs will remain high. That puts the old squeeze play on net income. The answer, obviously, is reducing production costs to the bone—making every production unit efficient, whether it be an acre of ground, a hog, a cow, or a chicken.

High producing, adapted varieties of crops, adequately fertilized, planted at the right time in well prepared soil, will cut the cost of production.

Most farmers feed their hay and corn to livestock, and the herds and flocks convert this feed into milk, pork, eggs, etc. Therefore, we must be sure that they are efficient. It is your livestock that settles the price you get for your feed and labor. Low producing animals and birds should be disposed of now, and they should be replaced with high producers.

Can the proper use of electricity, machinery, and power cut your labor costs? Study causes of livestock mortality and correct any bad conditions. Sanitation pays. Analyze your production figures and costs; they will reveal your weak and strong spots. Keep overhead cost down.

Every farmer can improve his operations, and it will pay from here on out.

The two young men walked resolutely into the outer corridor and the outside door swung too gently behind them.

"Well, Bluebeard, how about it?" asked Jordan when he put the key into the door to the private office.

As the door swung open they both looked in eagerly. They heard the telephone in the outer office. Silently they sat down and Jordan gave his partner a poke in the ribs when Clem Tate looked too triumphant as the moments passed.

AT THE END of a half hour Clem Tate rose to his feet. Jordan followed him and they made their way silently into the outer corridor again.

"Certainly, Mr. Tate," she said, placing the key in her desk drawer.

"Well, was I right, Jordan?" asked Clem.

"You win, Bluebeard—er, I mean, non-Bluebeard," said Jordan. "Say, I've got to have a breath of air after that self-imposed silence. I think maybe we both like talking a little better than we thought we did. I had a thousand things I wanted to tell you while we sat there. But as for your charming little Elsie—she's the real thing all right, all right. Never even clicked the key in the lock, did she? Or looked through the key-hole at us?"

Jordan ambled towards the elevators with a wave of his hand. Clem Tate stood an instant at the outer door and then entered the suite of offices. He hurried through to the door of the private office and tried the knob.

"Oh—" he said, "Miss Lyons, I forgot that this door is locked. Let me have the key, will you, please?" "I—I'm so sorry, Mr. Tate. But I simply can't think what I did with that key. There was a telephone call the moment you left and I looked for the key so that I could—could—er—lay the message on your desk."

"But I said not to go in." She laughed gently. Dimples peeped in and out charmingly. She bent again and then with a sigh she murmured: "Oh! Here it is! I'm so careless!"

Podiatrists Warn Parents— Beware of Foot Infection

Reports received by the National Foot health council from podiatrist and chiropodists throughout the country indicate a sharp increase in foot infections among school children.

During the winter months protection of children's shoes with rubbers or galoshes results in greater heat between the toes, which gives the fungus causing athlete's foot (epidermaphytosis) a chance to work. The same infections have been found among college girls who wear "loafers" continually, as the rubber soles tend to increase heat and perspiration. The skin may become macerated, and the tiny pores in the skin are then invaded by epidermaphytosis resulting in the scaly, squamous, blistering infections commonly referred to as athlete's foot.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, Chairman of the foot health council, states that children should not be permitted to walk barefooted even around their own homes, as the feet can pick up the fungus which then may become active when impermeable-soled shoes are worn. Prevention always being better than cure, Dr. Lelyveld recommends that children be instructed to bathe their feet daily, dry them thoroughly, and apply an antiseptic foot powder to take up excess moisture. Parents should exercise their authority in the selection of children's shoes, making certain there are adequate cloth linings over the toes, and that the soles are of flexible leather that bend freely with the toes. Shoes made with impervious soles may increase sweating and the fatigue that can lead to weak feet or to warts or other skin infections.

Electric Service Advisers

A new type of job is opening up in the rural electric field for graduates in home economics and electrical engineering, says the rural electrification administration of the department of agriculture. This is the job of electrification adviser. The duties are to work with rural people on power use problems. About 200 of the nearly 1,000 REA-financed rural electric cooperatives already have hired such an adviser, and many more are trying to find qualified men or women. Furthermore, some of the electric service cooperatives which have one adviser are considering adding another. Training in home economics or agricultural engineering is usually a requirement, but special training in cooperative electrification needs is also desirable.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

There'll Always Be a "Gawker"

"Harry the Hermit," as he's called, came into town last week and, as usual, caused quite a stir. He looks like a cross between Santa Claus and Daniel Boone.

We had a friendly glass of beer together and I asked him, "Don't you ever get annoyed at the way some people laugh and stare at you go by?" "Shucks no," Harry says. "Only while they're laughin' at me, I'm feelin' a mite sorry for them. Imagine—folks so ungrateful they can't see I'm really just the same as they are underneath."

From where I sit, Harry's a lot more "civilized" than the people who make fun of him. He's contented, lives the way he believes is right without harming anyone—and what's more, he's tolerant of others whose tastes in living are different from his.

Maybe we all don't look the same, or act the same, or eat or drink the same, but in a free country, why should we?

Heaven Is Real

Easter Lesson for April 17, 1949

HEAVEN IS just as real as Chicago. More so, because Chicago will in time cease to be, while heaven lasts forever. A few atomic bombs, a whiff of some new plague, can make Chicago vanish; but no atomic bomb can touch heaven. The pity is, so few Christians really believe this. We can get mail from Chicago, but who ever heard of mail from heaven?

Wait, though . . . there is mail from heaven, and you have it there in your Bible. If you accept it for what it is, the Word of God, then it is the Word from heaven. To be sure, it does not tell us much about heaven. If you were actually traveling to Chicago, you would not begin by studying a street-map of that city. What you would need is a map of the roads between.

So the Bible is not a guide-book to the "City Four-Square;" it is more of a road-map to help us find the way between here and there. Nevertheless, the Bible does assure us that heaven is real.

Christians have many reasons for believing in the reality of the future life, and some of these may not be in the Bible; but the best reasons are there.

Jesus Believed It

WINIFRED KIRKLAND has truly said that Jesus did not simply believe in immortality; he lived it. Jesus would never have called this world or this life trifling or unimportant. But all around, under and over and through this visible world, Jesus was aware of another. He lived and acted as a citizen of both worlds. He talked of life after death—or for that matter, of his own life before his birth—as calmly and naturally as you would speak of next week or next summer.

Christ is Risen

MANY PEOPLE feel it would be easier to believe in the future life if someone who had been across the line of death would return across that line to bring a message from the beyond. So they attend seances and they listen to table-tappings and go through all manner of weird performances in order to get a word or two from someone who has passed on.

But all the time we do have a record of a Return. Indeed it is The Return. We call it the Resurrection. The message of Easter is not summed up in songs about some "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere;" It is in these three words: "Christ is risen!"

He did not return in darkness, he was not under the control of any "medium," he did not make himself known by ghostly hauntings. He was seen at supper-tables, he spoke to his friends on a mountainside, he came to fishermen on a spring morning by a lake shore. The earliest Christians doubted some things; but few doubted that the Lord was risen indeed.

Heaven Begins With God

THE CURE for the troubled heart, Jesus said, is faith in God. One of the strongest reasons for believing that the future life is real, is the nature and character of God himself. Jesus said as much once, in an argument with men who did not believe in immortality: "God is not the God of the dead, but of the living." If we were God's paper dolls or toy soldiers, he might weary of us as a child wearies of its toys, and sweep us all into destruction without a moment's thought. But if we are truly his children, then when life's evening comes, he will call his tired children home.

Eternal Life has two sides, the heaven-side and the earth-side. The church has never believed that simple immortality is the same thing as the heavenly life.

A Judas, when he dies, goes (as Peter said) "to his own place." A Judas carries out his own hell with him. But a man like Paul, or any Christian who has been at home with God here on this earth, when at last death comes, will, as Whittier said:

"Find himself by hands familiar beckoned Unto his fitting place."

Sewer and Water Ordinance for Tinley Park

Following the meeting held at the Tinley Park School on the evening of April 6, 1949, the residents of Tinley Park should be very grateful that Mrs. Rose M. Brown had the knowledge and energy to try and block the enactment by the Village Board of the tricky ordinance on the new sewerage and water system, which has been proposed for the Parkside Addition, instead of Tinley Park proper, the aforementioned ordinance having been previously approved by the Village Board.

If the people do not get out and vote this ordinance down, they will be reminded many times in the future, and their children also will be reminded, when they start paying the bills.

In consideration of the above, when voting, we should not forget the person, Mrs. Brown, who, by her foresight and untiring work spent in finding loopholes and hidden pitfalls in this ordinance, has made it possible for the voter to understand the full significance of this ordinance. Let us put in a new slate, headed by a person who is able and keep enough to block such a move!

The Mosquitofish

Roberts Mann, Supt. of Conservation Forest Preserve Dist. Cook Co. In our forest preserves we have restored many marshes, both large and small, that had been drained or partially drained by former owners of the land. By blocking tile drains and building low dams at the natural outlets from valleys or low wet areas, we not only have restored old marshes but have created many new lakes, lagoons, ponds and sloughs.

Such areas soon become populated with aquatic plants and animals. Then they attract many kinds of wildlife that come there to drink, bathe, prey and feed, or build their homes. Such areas have life, beauty and interest the whole year 'round. We call them "Wildlife Oases." But they present one problem, important in a county of 4,500,000 people: Mosquitoes.

Fortunately, the Chicago region has a fish immigrant from the southern states with which we control the mosquitoes that breed in such waters. It is the Mosquitofish, or Gambusia, one of the little topminnows or killifishes, and a near relative of the guppies, swordtails and mollies—popular aquarium fishes also from warmer climates. Like them, and unlike the other native killifishes of the northern states, the young of the Gambusia are born alive. It is called the mosquitofish because, more than any other kind, it regularly feeds among trash and vegetation in shallow water and along shores where mosquitoes breed.

It was first successfully introduced into northern Illinois in 1923, when some of these fish were brought from a pond on the campus of Southern Illinois Normal University, at Carbondale, and placed in a garden pool in Winnetka, a north shore suburb of Chicago. Carbondale, over 300 miles south, is near the northern limit of the Gambusia's normal range.

In 1928 and 1929, more of these little fish from the Carbondale pond were placed in ponds on golf courses near Chicago by the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement District; but none survived a winter. So, in 1933, this organization obtained mosquitofish from the Winnetka pool and placed them in ponds in our forest preserves and elsewhere. Enough of these survived and multiplied so that these ponds have served as hatcheries for further distribution of this hardy "naturalized" northern strain, obtained by unique good fortune from one or more rare individual fish adapted to survive long winters beneath the ice. Since 1941, some of this same strain have been successfully planted in a variety of Michigan waters as far north as the Straits of Mackinac.

The two sexes of the mosquitofish are more strikingly different in size than any other native fish. The mature female is usually less than two inches long but she is twice as long and ten times as heavy as the mature male. Females usually produce 3 or 4 broods in a season and an average of about 50 young per brood, but exceptionally large females may give birth to broods of 300 young. Apparently, mosquitofish do not often live longer than two years.

Mosquitoes lay little raft-like masses of eggs on the surface of the water. These hatch out larvae which must come frequently to the surface to breathe. After they become pupae, the pupa dangles from the surface film of the water by a tube thru which it breathes. Mosquitofish have upturned mouths, and they work along the surface, gobbling down mosquito eggs, larvae and pupae. In some waters these fish multiply until they not only effectively control mosquitoes but also serve as an important item of food for hook-and-line fish. It may develop that the introduction of Gambusia into waters of the "vacation regions" of the northern states may accomplish more, in two ways, to increase the pleasure of vacationists that many fibre expensive programs of fish management and of mosquito control.

Water plus Gambusia equals recreation minus mosquitoes.

New Rayons Washable And Crease-Resistant

There's good news for home sewers in rayon materials this spring. Many rayons—shantungs, gabardines, and butcher linens—are washable and are finished so that they're crease resistant.

To make sure that material has both these qualities, read the label on the bolt. That's the advice of Miss Dorothy Durrell, on the staff of the Home Economics Department, University of Illinois College of Agriculture. And Miss Durrell suggests that if the cloth isn't labeled, it's a good idea to ask the salesperson about it. Of course the sooner you buy material, the better your chances will be of getting just what you want.

More good news is that this is the season of many colors. Rayon butcher linen is coming out in about 30 different colors. And it will be in three weights, ranging from heavy suit-weight to a light weight for use in dresses.

Shantungs and broadcloths are available in plain pastel colors and in a variety of prints. Some of the prints are "South Sea Island" designs adapted from batik and tapa cloth patterns.

Gabardines which are lighter weight than usual will be on the market. These are finer than rayon gabardine has been in the past, and they are firm. When it comes to washing and ironing the new rayons, special care should be taken. All rayons are weakened by wetting, so they should be handled gently in washing. And a low heat is generally best for ironing them.

Washington News Letter

From Congressman N. M. Mason

Our National Economy Endangered
A recession is in the offing. It may turn into a depression. The onus of a depression would fall upon President Truman and his economic advisers; therefore, from a political angle if from no other it must be avoided if possible. If it comes before the 1950 Congressional election, it will result in electing a Republican Congress.

Our economy is a money economy, held together by a delicate gossamer web of credit. A break in our delicate credit system would cause a serious upset to our whole economic system. The administration is vitally concerned in trying to support our credit system—stabilizing it they call it—in order to hold up prices and prevent a general business slump.

American industry, as a supplier of goods and a payer of wages, can be kept in a healthy condition only by preventing a break in our delicate credit system. President Truman's economic advisers insist credit stabilization can be brought about only through government controls, regulations, priorities, and allocations. They want that power given them by legislation. This program always results in decreased production, increased scarcities, and higher prices. What we really need today in order to stabilize our present economy is maximum production, maximum income and maximum profits. A program of maximum production will keep us upon our present economic plateau. A stable economy cannot be established by increasing taxes, increasing government controls, and increasing government spending—the program recommended by President Truman.

Taken From the Congressional Record

"Mr. Mason: Mr. Speaker, there is growing concern in Washington today over falling prices, increasing unemployment, surpluses that are beginning to pile up, and an anticipated glutted market. Something must be done to avoid the deflation that lies ahead. American surpluses must be disposed of in order that full employment may be maintained and our national income kept above the $200,000,000,000 mark. President Truman proposes therefore to give away more goods to keep the production machine going.

"This program of give-away is to be sold to the American taxpayers—who have to pay for it—as a defense measure because a business slump would be playing into the hands of Joe Stalin. If a business slump comes Joe Stalin will have won his cold war. So we must tax and tax, spend and spend, give away and give away, produce and produce, to avoid a depression.

"Economists, both inside and outside the administration, have known for some time that our high-price, high-income economy must be maintained to keep America solvent, to meet heavy service charges upon our $280,000,000,000 debt, and to support our extravagant $45,000,000,000 Federal budget.

"President Truman's bold new world program is bound to develop into a robbery Peter to pay Paul process, a spend ourselves into prosperity program, where the American taxpayer will be required to pick up the check.

How long, Mr. Speaker, can this give-away game be kept up?"

The Economic Stability Act of 1949

In discussing President Truman's "Economic Stability Act of 1949," Frank R. Kent says:

"If enacted, it would give the President a control over private business never before seriously suggested in time of peace. Under it he could fix prices and wages, regulate profits, put into effect priorities and allocations and use Government money to expand production. It is, in fact, the most thorough-going control over industry proposal ever advanced. With the power conferred on the President therein, private ownership of industry would exist only to the degree the Government chose to let it exist. It is not surprising that businessmen who have grasped the true purpose of the bill should be shocked. It is not surprising that those who have read it understandingly should be baffled and bewildered as to the real character of this administration's economic advisers."

Plan to Assign Kenny Technicians to Ill. Approved Hospitals

A new program making the unmodified Kenny treatment more easily available to more polio sufferers has been introduced in Illinois, according to Rodney H. Brandon, Illinois Chairman of the Sister Kenny Foundation. Rather than having centers exclusively devoted to the disease, such as the Sister Kenny Clinic in Centralia, which has been discontinued, Brandon said the new plan calls for the eventual assignment of technicians to all hospitals approved by the Illinois Crippled Childrens Division and by the Sister Kenny Foundation.

A unit of Kenny technicians has already been assigned to Dr. Sidney Sideman, Chicago board orthopedic surgeon, and all hospitals within the state are being invited to select either a nurse or physical therapist, or both, from each of their staffs for enrollment in the class opening this May 16 at the Sister Kenny Institute in Minneapolis. ## Award to be Made For Contribution in Public Improvements

John Lucian Savage, internationally famous civil engineer, has been designated 1949 winner of the annual Washington award by a joint committee of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the Western Society of Engineers, it was announced this week. The award will be made at a dinner April 20 at the Furniture Club of America in Chicago.

At the dinner, Savage, recipient of the award "for his unselfish public service devoted to the creation of monumental hydraulic structures utilizing natural resources," will discuss the Yangtze river dam project in China which he designed in 1945 and 1946.

The power distribution area of the project at the site of the Yangtze gorge project was temporarily suspended in August, 1947 due to internal strife in China. It is estimated that the dam will take six or seven years to build. Twenty diversion tunnels would be needed, compared with the four used in Boulder dam, to divert the Yangtze. It is estimated that the fluid capacity would be equal to 50 million acres and that the storage of flood waters would irrigate 10 million acres of land.

Savage has received several University degrees. He is consulting engineer for the Tennessee Valley Authority and the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation. No other individual has had the direct responsibility for more dams than Savage. Among the more prominent are the Hoover (Boulder) dam and power plant, Shasta dam, All-American canal system in California, Continental Divide tunnel in Colorado, Norris and Wheeler dams in Tennessee and the Underground Fuel Storage

Project at Pearl Harbor for Contractors, Pacific Naval Air Base.

His projects have included work in Afghanistan, Australia, Canada, China, India, Mexico, Palestine, Spain, Switzerland and England.

The Washington Award was established in 1919. The first winner was Herbert Hoover. Other on whom the honor has been conferred are Vannoy Bush, Arthur Compton, Charles F. Kettering, the late Henry Ford, and Ralph E. Flanders.

Easter Cantata To be Given in So. Holland

The combined choirs of the South Holland First Reformed church and the Chicago Heights Methodist church consisting of 70 voices, will present an Easter cantata, entitled "Olivet to Calvary" in the South Holland church Sunday evening starting at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Arthur Lambrecht of Frankfort is the director of these choirs.

The same cantata was rendered in the Chicago Heights church last Sunday evening and brought high praise, both for the choir personnel and the director.

A new soybean variety for southern Illinois named Wabash is being introduced this year for seed increase, announces the U. S. Regional Soybean laboratory at Urbana.

COLLEGE FOR CHEFS

G. I. Schools in cooking, menu planning, restaurant operation and hotel management are being conducted in various parts of the country, with one more or less affiliated with Yale. For this we give a lousy cheer. If there is one field in which plenty of education is needed, it is in the operation of the average American restaurant and luncheonette. The run-of-the-mill eating places of this country are presided over largely by chefs who are strictly grease-and-hot-flame boys.

Even the proper technique in frying an egg escapes them. Their idea of a good dinner is anything that has been in and out of a grease bath. And they can make coffee taste like essence of marine varnish. They got into the business on a bet, learned to cook by taking an elementary course in arson and kept their jobs because the boss ate elsewhere.

A college for chefs, cooks and stewards is a crying need. America desperately needs it. The customers are tired of being guinea pigs for apprentice ham-and-bean boys whose motto is, "If you can eat it without catsup, it's our mistake."

There are G. I. students from 38 states in the school at New Haven. The boys study cooking under experts and nobody who thinks two minutes are enough for a four-minute egg makes the team. No student with a fixed idea that any sandwich is tasty if well upholstered with faded lettuce finishes his freshman year.

We understand special attention is paid to the matter of chicken pies and beef stews and that the dean flunks any student who insists all a chicken pie needs to be irresistible is a slight segment of wing, one quartered potato and a boiled onion whipped in glue.

As for menu planners, ah, there's a field! Take 150,000 middle-class restaurants in this country today, and 149,923 think the menu has been radically changed if the string beans are left out.

Dietitians? Yes and no. Personally, we think that the moment a person gets a sheepskin as a dietitian he or she thinks it is a license to skimp on all the essentials of lunch except eggplant and coleslaw.

The course in hotel management is needed, too. What a field! There are thousands of cities and towns in America where, except for one inn (if lucky), the hotels are run by sock peddlers hired to keep down expenses and operate wholly on the theory that the guest should bring his own plumbing kit, be able to fix a lock and make no complaint if he has to have the hotel physician immediately after ordering the day's special.

Three cheers and a tiger for that school up in the rarified atmosphere of Yale. And we hope Harvard and Princeton will see the light, too.

Cuff Stuff

"Realtor" won a race at $43 in Miami the other day and Shudda Haddim is still knocking himself with reproachments. "Realtor! A name like that in Florida and I don't know it's a sure hunch!" he cried. "Every third guy I meet this winter down there is selling lots! I can't do any handicapping the night before this race on account of everybody on the porch is arguin' over real estate."

"That night around midnight I get waked up by a phone call in the next room and some guy starts making an appointment to look over a sub-division. At breakfast my three-minute eggs are done a half hour on account of the chef is tryin' to sell the dishwasher a bungalow cheap. And on the way to the track the taxi driver stops to point out his acreage! Yet there is this skinner 'Realtor' on the program and I let him go."

"I with those who judged me would be willing to risk their lives as I did."—Axis Sally. . . How about a medal for the heroic little woman?

It is possible that those youths who staged an old fashioned train robbery recently were raised on those western movies and got the idea nobody's aim in a posse was any good.

Two playboys pleaded guilty in New York to promoting a gambling party in the guise of charity. Jail terms are possible. A lot of Broadway fast-dollar boys are going to be amazed to discover that they can pass the hat and get it back with a striped suit and handcuffs in it.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank all our kind neighbors and friends and the Volunteer fire department of Orland for helping to fight the fire at our home Sunday. We are deeply appreciative.

MR. and MRS. HOWARD PETERSON

Celebrate 15th Anniversary

To celebrate the 15th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Krierem, they and their children spent the day in Chicago on April 7. After being interviewed on the Dinner Bell program, they saw the show, "How Dear to My Heart" and then enjoyed a six o'clock dinner at Cavallini restaurant in Blue Island. In the evening they were surprised when friends and relatives called, helping them to spend another enjoyable time. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bettenhausen, Christ Keuch, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rauch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marquardt and family, Carl Vogt, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Krierem and family and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keuch.

The Missionary society of the Orland Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Forrest Miller on west 143rd st., next Thursday afternoon, April 21 at two o'clock.

Miss Carol Kaufman, who was an appendectomy patient in Mt. Sinai hospital in Chicago, returned to her home Monday.

Mrs. John G. Rogers, who has been ill with the flu the past week, is able to be about again.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet April 24 in a covered dish service. The program consists of worship, sociability, recreation and introduction of friends and new members.

Commercial Aviation Pioneer

The tiny, single-engine monoplane which made the first commercial flight along the west coast of South America is now on display at the new national air museum, a subsidiary of the Smithsonian institute in Washington D.C. As the first airplane of Pan American Grace Airways (Panagra), the fragile, four-passenger craft made its first flight between Lima and Talara, Peru, on September 13, 1928, to inaugurate commercial air transportation along the west coast of South America, and was the forerunner of the giant luxury airliners which today criss-cross the air lanes of South America.

According to Childcraft books, it would take an airplane flying 200 miles per hour, 50 years to travel from the Sun to the Earth. Moving at the same rate of speed, a trip to Pluto, the farthest planet from the sun, could be made in a little better than 2,000 years!
